A COMPREHENSIVE GUIDE TO NAVIGATING THE UNCF/MELLON MAYS UNDERGRADUATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

CREATED FOR THE 2022 UNCF/MELLON FELLOWS

ABOUT THIS DOCUMENT

Congratulations! You are now a part of an elite group of scholars, collectively known as the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellows. The UNCF/Mellon Fellows join undergraduate Mellon fellows throughout the country and South Africa as members of one of the most prestigious Ph.D. pipeline programs in the country- The Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program (MMUF). We welcome you to this very distinguished community of scholars.

This manual was created to assist you over the next two years as you navigate and complete your undergraduate fellowship requirements. It is designed to ensure that you are fully aware of the expectations and opportunities associated with the UNCF/Mellon Undergraduate Fellowship Program. Although most of the information and forms that you will need as you matriculate as a fellow are included in this document, you and your mentor will receive e-mail reminders prior to the deadline dates of each opportunity. At the end of most pages, you will find a checklist. This is to ensure that you have not omitted an important step or piece of information when submitting items to the Programs Office or other offices. This manual also includes important information on Mellon Mays affiliate programs with which you will need to acquaint yourself as you journey toward the Ph.D. Information in this document on the Institute for Recruitment of Teachers (IRT), Leadership Alliance, the Social Science Research Council (SSRC) and the various opportunities provided by these affiliate programs comes directly from the websites of these Programs. Website addresses are provided. You will be introduced to representatives of these programs during the Summer Institute.

Please retain this document and refer to it when you have questions about the expectations of the Program and the responsibilities and opportunities available to you as a UNCF/Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellow.

UNCF MEMBER COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

There are 102 historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) across the nation. In Title III of the Higher Education Act of 1965, Congress officially defined an HBCU as: an institution whose principal mission was and is the education of black Americans, is accredited and was established before 1964. The first HBCU, Cheyney University in Pennsylvania was founded in 1837. All HBCUs play a critical role in the American higher education system. For most of America's history, African Americans who received a college education could only receive it from an HBCU.

While the 102 HBCUs represent just three percent of the nation's institutions of higher learning, they graduate nearly 20 percent of African Americans who earn undergraduate degrees. HBCUs, because of their unique sensibility to the special needs of young African American minds, remain the institutions that demonstrate the most effective ability to graduate African American students who are poised to be competitive in the corporate, research, academic, governmental and military arenas.

The United Negro College Fund (UNCF) consortium supports primarily students of African descent attending 37 private institutions and Hampton University.

THE UNCF/MELLON UNDERGRADUATE MENTOR

The faculty mentor is a central figure in the Program. The mentor has four general responsibilities.

First, the mentor is to help the fellow prepare for graduate school. This may involve helping the fellow identify useful sources of information or directing the fellow to a person on campus who maintains files on graduate programs.

Second, the mentor is responsible for overseeing the fellow's research project. The project should acquaint the fellow with the disciplinary research methods and applications that scholars follow in a selected discipline. The project should not duplicate the work required in a course, nor should it interfere with the fellow's academic progress. The project should require intense engagement with the work of leading scholars within the disciplinary field of inquiry.

Third, the mentor provides opportunities for the fellow to develop teaching skills through practice teaching.

Fourth, the mentor is to be the liaison between the UNCF/Mellon Programs and the fellow. The mentor is also responsible for assisting the fellow with the preparation of reports needed by the program.

1. HELP THE FELLOW PREPARE FOR GRADUATE SCHOOL

- a) Assist the fellow in selecting courses; serve essentially as a faculty advisor to the fellow
- b) Help the fellow identify an area of interest and the programs and scholars in that field
- c) Aid the fellow in compiling information on graduate departments and fellowship programs
- d) Ensure that the fellow keeps track of deadlines for programs and any applicable examinations, e.g. the Graduate Record Examination
- e) Discuss with the fellow the nature of graduate study

2. SUPERVISE AND GUIDE THE FELLOW'S RESEARCH PROJECT

- a) Assist the fellow in conceiving a project, planning it, and carrying it out
- b) Schedule regular periods of contact for review of the project
- c) Evaluate the project
- d) Assist fellow with the development of a scholarly bibliography and reading list related to the selected topic

3. THE UNCF/MELLON PROGRAMS SEEK TO FOSTER BOTH TEACHING AND RESEARCH SKILLS. MENTORS ARE ENCOURAGED TO:

- a) Allow the fellow to tutor a class, present a lecture, or develop a section of class
- b) Create opportunities for the fellow to observe the mentor's teaching strategies
- c) Discuss various roles and responsibilities of faculty members

4. SERVE AS A LINK BETWEEN THE UNCF/MELLON PROGRAMS, THE FELLOW AND THE HOME INSTITUTION

- a) Maintain information on the requirements of the Program
- b) Inform the Director and/or Campus Coordinator of any questions or problems that arise from Program requirements
- c) Alert the Director and/or Campus Coordinator of changes in the fellow's status
- d) Assist the Program in monitoring the progress of the fellow and in evaluating activities
- e) Attend the UNCF/Mellon Mentors and Coordinators' Conference, scheduled for early-to mid October
- f) Submit a progress report during the course of the academic year
- g) Submit a final report at the end of that year

PROGRAMS OFFICE CHALLENGES

The Programs Office is in the process of collecting data on the UNCF/Mellon Fellows who have preceded you, in an attempt to update our Program statistics. We face numerous challenges as we attempt to contact our UNCF/Mellon Alumni, as their contact information changes, and they neglect to keep us updated. Please note therefore, that it is CRUCIAL that you keep the Programs Office updated on any changes to your contact information. We want to keep in touch with you so that we can continue to inform you of opportunities that you will be eligible for even after you have graduated and also so that we can continue to update our statistics. We also need to be able to provide the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation with correct, updated contact information for you. We initially obtain your contact information from the MMUF Profile Form that you complete once you have been accepted into the program. We are asking that each semester, you refer to this checklist, so that you can be certain that you are keeping us up-to-date!

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. Are there funds available to, for example, purchase books, pay for the GRE or supplement the Travel Stipend to attend a Conference with my Mentor?

You should plan your stipend spending in advance. You may choose to use a portion of your semester stipend to help defray the costs of books and research materials. Alternatively, you are allotted $800 in the form of a Scholarly Development Fund, which you may use for your travel and research needs. Senior Fellows are also allotted $1,000.00 for GRE preparation.

2. My prospectus has changed. Do I have to inform the Programs Office?

Yes, once your research topic has changed and your Mentor has approved the new prospectus, please forward the new topic to the Programs Office. Please get in the habit of sharing updates with the Programs Office as they occur.

3. My mentor and I are unable to continue working together? What should we do?

You and your Mentor are required to submit, in writing, the reasons for this development. Your new Mentor must be identified in this correspondence. If there is a coordinator on your campus, the Coordinator should assist with the identification of a new mentor. In addition, your new mentor must make contact with the Programs Office to complete important documents.

4. What is the appropriate use for my Junior Summer Stipend?

The Junior Summer stipend can be used on a project or projects that will help to facilitate a fellow's research and/or graduate school research activities. Fellows may use their stipends for travel to different states to conduct interviews or graduate school visits. Fellows may also use their stipend to participate in study abroad programs related to their research. Fellows may even opt to complete summer school courses (for example, intensive research related language courses), but they may not take any courses that can be taken during the academic school year. Fellows may also use the stipend to purchase books and other research materials and to conduct research related experiments.

5. I am unable to graduate on the date that I indicated on my MMUF Profile Form. Will I remain in the Program until I have graduated?

You must contact the Programs Director, Dr. Cynthia Neal Spence, to discuss the reason you are unable to graduate on the date indicated, and the possibility of remaining in the Programs for another semester, or year. The Programs Director will make the final decision.

6. I have to miss a semester of school. What will happen to my Fellowship?

You must contact the Programs Director, Dr. Cynthia Neal Spence, to discuss your reason for missing a semester. Your Fellowship support will cease until you inform the Programs Office of your return to school. In most cases, your Fellowship will be reinstated. The Programs Director will make the final decision.

CAPE TOWN MMUF JANUARY PROGRAM*

The MMUF January Program introduces undergraduates to the history, culture and intellectual space of the New South Africa through a curriculum that is interdisciplinary in nature. The on-site experiential learning program is intended to broaden the fellow's understanding of the South African socio-eco, racial, cultural, historical and environmental landscape through critical enquiry and debate. The selection committee welcomes applications from undergraduates whose research proposals for this program are comparative in nature (e.g. the U.S. and South Africa, or the Caribbean and South Africa, or West Africa and South Africa) and which address a specific aspect of the culture, history and interdisciplinary analysis of social organization of the African Diaspora, the Black Atlantic World, or South Africa.

The Mellon Foundation offers awards for eligible undergraduates. The award includes one round trip ticket from Atlanta to Cape Town, a $600.00 travel stipend, board and lodging.

Undergraduates selected to participate in the Cape Town January Program are required to attend all of the instructional components and to participate fully in all program activities.

A list of past participants and the application checklist are on the following pages.

THE INSTITUTE FOR RECRUITMENT OF TEACHERS (IRT)

MISSION

The Institute for Recruitment of Teachers (IRT) empowers talented underserved and underrepresented future educators to teach and serve as leaders in American education because diversity is essential to excellence.

CORE VALUES

- Diversity. We believe that a diversity of educators, pedagogies, and ideas elevates the quality, expands the scope, and enhances the richness of education. The heart of our mission is therefore to expand educational access for talented underserved and underrepresented students, including students of color, first-generation, and low-income students. Thus, we collaborate with consortium colleges and universities, nonprofit organizations, and networks that seek to promote intentionally diverse and inclusive learning communities.
- Excellence. We believe creating a culture of inquiry that seeks to cultivate analytical rigor, high standards and innovation in approaches to teaching and learning as core attributes of our future educators is the most effective way to realize educational excellence in our schools, colleges and universities.
- Influence. We invest in the next generation of educators because we know that a quality education provided by an effective teacher is the single greatest influence on student success. We believe that equity and inclusion are fundamental to building a better society. Through this investment, we endeavor to build a legacy of influence for generations of students to come.
- Empowerment. We believe that providing diverse students with educational and professional advocacy and mentorship in higher education will expand their career options as well as equip them to inspire more students as teachers, role models, and innovative thought leaders in education. We believe that in implementing our mission, IRT and its alumni can help advocate for positive changes in our educational system and for educational excellence in all communities in order to advance educational transformation.
- Leadership. As an organization, we will act with intention and integrity in our decision-making, leadership, and governance. To be supportive of and responsive to the needs of our students, alumni and partners, a culture of adaptability, assessment and introspection, innovation, and fiscal sustainability is fundamental to our purpose.

PROGRAM HISTORY

The Institute for Recruitment of Teachers (IRT) was founded in 1990 by Kelly Wise, former IRT executive director and dean of faculty at Phillips Academy, with a mission to “deepen the pool of talented minorities entering the teaching profession in our country.” The institute was designed to increase the number of African American, Latino/a and Native American students pursuing advanced degrees for teaching, counseling and administrative careers so the pool of potential faculty members at both the K-12 and university levels will become more diverse. In 2004, the Institute reaffirmed its commitment to eradicating racial disparities at all levels of education and selecting outstanding college students and recent graduates from all diverse backgrounds, including Asians and Caucasians, who are committed to these ideals.

PROGRAMS

SUMMER WORKSHOP

- 25-30 Interns are selected by the IRT to participate in an intense four-week Summer Workshop at Phillips Academy.
- During the summer, interns and faculty spend each weekday in seminar discussions and activities. The syllabus consists of traditional and cutting-edge theory and cultural criticism in the disciplines of education, the humanities, and social science designed to introduce students to the philosophical rigors associated with the kinds of texts one encounters throughout graduate study. The summer program also includes lectures, writing conferences, debates, and presentations by nationally known educators, artists, and poets. Students also prepare for the GRE and begin work on their statements of purpose.
- In mid-July, the IRT hosts its renowned annual Recruiters' Weekend for all students where over 60 graduate school deans and admissions representatives speak with potential candidates about their graduate programs.
- Summer workshop participants receive a $1,200 stipend, travel expenses (for those traveling by plane or train), and room and board.
- Admission for the summer workshop is highly selective. If we are unable to offer you a place in the workshop, you will still be considered automatically for a place in the year-long Associates Program.

ASSOCIATE PROGRAM

- Along with the students who participate in the Summer Workshop, the IRT also selects approximately 90 outstanding students to enroll in the Associate Program. Associates do not participate in the Summer Workshop, but, like Interns, are selected through a rigorous application process. The Associate program is geared toward undergraduates, recent college graduates, and working professionals who otherwise are engaged during the summer in research, teaching, or other opportunities. Both Interns and Associates are offered extensive counseling and assistance in negotiating the graduate school application process.

ELIGIBILITY

All applicants must:

1. For undergraduates, have earned a grade point average of 3.0 or above (on a 4.0 scale); and for graduate students, have earned a grade point average of 3.5 or above (on a 4.0 scale).
2. Demonstrate a commitment to eradicating racial disparities in education;
3. Demonstrate a professional interest in teaching, counseling, or administration (K-12 or higher education)
4. Submit a complete online application by April 18!
5. Attend an information session either on campus or online.

You are eligible to participate in our program if you are:

- A current undergraduate junior or senior
- A college graduate (recent or otherwise)
- Currently or previously enrolled in a Master's degree program
- A working professional with an undergraduate degree

SSRC - THE SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH COUNCIL- GRADUATE INITIATIVES PROGRAM

The SSRC-Mellon Mays Graduate Initiatives Program aims to address, over time, the problem of underrepresentation in the academy at the level of college and university faculties. Funded by grants from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the program provides support for scholars from all backgrounds with a demonstrated commitment to this goal. To date, over 700 fellows have received doctoral degrees and nearly 700 fellows are in Ph.D. programs.

The Graduate Initiatives Program builds upon the Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program (MMUF) by supporting MMUF fellows from the early stages of graduate school to the post-Ph.D. years. It is only open to Ph.D. students who were selected as Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellows. Fellows must enroll in doctoral programs within 39 months of receiving their undergraduate degrees, and they must be in one of the MMUF eligible fields of study.

For information on all programs administered by the SSRC, please visit their website at:

MELLON MAYS REGIONAL LECTURE SERIES

In addition to supporting our fellows through various stages of the doctorate, the Mellon Mays Graduate Initiatives Program aspires to foster and strengthen relationships among all members of the Mellon Mays community. To that end, the Regional Lecture Series brings together undergraduates, graduate students, coordinators, and faculty in each region for intellectual engagement and community-building. Each lecture allows a Mellon Ph.D. the opportunity to speak on their research or a current topic, and fellows and coordinators gather afterwards for a reception. To date, lectures have taken place in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Boston, Los Angeles, Baltimore, and Atlanta.

MELLON MAYS GRADUATE STUDENT SUMMER CONFERENCE

The Summer Conference is the flagship component of the SSRC-Mellon Mays Graduate Initiatives Program. Targeted towards graduate students in years one through three, it provides a forum for skills exchange, cohort-building, and the development of professional proficiencies such as maximizing research resources.

- Open to graduating seniors accepted into a doctoral program and graduate students in years one through three
- Fellows may now attend as many times as they want during their period of eligibility
- Provides the tools and skills for managing the early years of graduate school
- Includes panel presentations of fellows' research, thematic workshops, presentations by senior scholars, and other activities that expose early-stage graduate students to a broad range of institutional and intellectual issues
- Advanced graduate student fellows and Mellon Ph.D.s serve as workshop leaders, panel discussants, and moderators

MMUF PREDOCTORAL RESEARCH GRANTS

The Graduate Initiatives Program offers three predoctoral grant opportunities: the Graduate Studies Enhancement Grant (GSE), the Predoctoral Research Development Grant (PRD), and the Dissertation Completion Grant (DCG). These grants are only open to Ph.D. students who were selected as Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellows.

MELLON MAYS GAP ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (GAP)

The Mellon Mays Gap Assistance Program (GAP) helps Mellon Mays Fellows who have recently graduated maintain their graduate school ambitions and progress towards an academic career. It is a set of post-baccalaureate resources and events for recently graduated MMUF fellows taking a gap year and preparing to apply to Mellon-approved doctoral programs in six or twelve months. It serves as a bridge between undergraduate college and graduate school.

When there's a gap between earning your undergraduate degree and pursuing your Ph.D., reduced contact with the academy, time management concerns, work-life balance, and other issues can make it more challenging to complete your application to a doctoral program.

Mellon Mays GAP provides the resources that Mellon Mays Fellows who are now successful graduate students and Ph.D.s cited as critical for getting through the gap year(s):

- Structured template of gap year activities with staff follow-up and accountability with peers on your track.
- Live and on-demand media resources including webinar courses, handouts, video interviews with more senior Fellows.
- Predoctoral coaching and mentoring, regional events and virtual conversations.
- Graduate school intensive bootcamps in spring and fall (most expenses paid) to prepare for graduate school.

UNCF/MELLON PROGRAMS LOAN REPAYMENT

MMUF Fellows entering PhD programs in Mellon Designated Fields within 39 months of graduation from their undergraduate institution are eligible for repayment of their undergraduate loans up to a maximum of $10,000. MFAs may be eligible for up to $5,000 in loan repayment. In order to qualify, an MFA program must be research-based or theoretical as opposed to performance-based (i.e., leading to a faculty career rather than a performing career). Only undergraduate debt accrued through Perkins, Stafford, or college loan programs qualify for repayment.

CONDITIONS OF LOAN REPAYMENT (PLEASE READ CAREFULLY):

Fellows in the UNCF/Mellon Undergraduate Fellowship Program are eligible to have repaid up to $10,000.00 of their undergraduate educational loans under the following conditions:

- The fellow is pursuing full-time graduate work toward the Ph.D. degree in one of the following fields:
Anthropology and Archaeology, Area/Cultural/Ethnic/Gender Studies, Art History, Classics, Geography and Population Studies, English, Film, Cinema and Media Studies (theoretical focus), Musicology, Ethnomusicology and Music Theory, Foreign Languages and Literatures, History, Linguistics, Literature, Performance Studies (theoretical focus), Philosophy and Political Theory, Religion and Theology, Sociology, Theater (theoretical focus), Interdisciplinary Studies: Interdisciplinary areas of study may be eligible if they have one or more eligible fields at their core
- The fellow must enter graduate school no later than 39 months after receiving the undergraduate degree.

For fellows who fulfill the above conditions, the Mellon Foundation, through the UNCF/Mellon Undergraduate Fellowship Program, will repay one-eighth of their total undergraduate loan indebtedness (up to a maximum of $1,250.00 per year) for each of the first four years of graduate study toward the Ph.D.) The remaining balance of their undergraduate loan indebtedness (up to $5,000.00 will be repaid after the receipt of the Ph.D., which should be completed within six years from the start of graduate school.)

*As of 2002, as an enhancement to the MMUF Program, loan repayment has been approved for graduate students who have completed the Ph.D. who have not used the loan repayment allocation to repay undergraduate loans, but who have taken out designated educational loans from recognized lenders for graduate study. A letter from your dissertation committee chair, confirming completion of the Ph.D. is required. Please also complete the attached Loan Repayment Agreement form, and submit with the letter of confirmation.

PROCEDURES FOR LOAN REPAYMENT

At the end of each of the first four years of graduate study, fellows must request a transcript showing full-time graduate study and a confirmation from their graduate department that normal progress is being made toward the Ph.D. degree. At the same time, fellows should alert the lender of the loan that a check will be awarded through the Mellon Foundation Grant to reduce their indebtedness. They should request a statement of their total loan indebtedness from the lender of the loan so that a check can be issued.

Fellows must send the following to the UNCF/Mellon Programs Office:

- The loan repayment agreement form (attached)
- The transcript showing full-time graduate study
- The letter from their graduate department confirming satisfactory progress
- The statement of total loan indebtedness from the lender (with name and address of the lender)
- The lender must complete a UNCF Vendor Information Form and W9 which should then be mailed or emailed to the Programs Office. Please contact the Programs Office for a copy of these forms.

A check will be sent from the Program Account directly to the holder of the loan. A receipt in the form of a reissued statement of the account will be then sent to the fellow for his or her own records. If a fellow borrowed from both Stafford/GSL and Perkins/NDSL programs, it is to the fellow's advantage to choose to repay the Stafford/GSL loan first because of the higher interest.

After receipt of the Ph.D., proof of a valid degree is required to release the remainder of the available funds. Again, fellows must provide the name and address of the holder of the loan to be repaid and a statement of its current status.

If a student has undergraduate debt totaling less than $10,000, the remaining loan repayment funds may be used to repay graduate students loans. Graduate students loans may only be repaid upon completion of the PhD. The total amount of loan repayment funds will not exceed $10,000 and may only be used toward designated educational loans from recognized lenders for graduate study.

LOAN REPAYMENT AGREEMENT

I have read the terms of the Loan Repayment, and I agree to the terms of the loan repayment plan as outlined in the Terms of Loan Repayment for Fellows in the UNCF/Mellon Undergraduate Fellowship Program.

If you are continuing to graduate school, please let us know which institution you plan on attending, what degree you are pursuing and in what field. If you are taking time off to work, please let us know where. Once you go on to graduate school, or even if you take time off to work before going on to graduate school, we need to know what you are doing, so that we can account for all of our Fellows!

A STATEMENT ABOUT STIPENDS AND TAXES

Therefore, you will be expected to pay taxes on your stipends. You will receive a 1099 form at the beginning of the calendar year. The UNCF/Mellon Programs office does not provide tax advice; you should consult your personal tax advisor with any questions or concerns.
